

DR WHO and the DALEKS SWEET CIGARETTES

In 1964, Paramount (Laboratories) Ltd of Slough approached BBC Enterprises for a licence to produce sweet cigarettes featuring Doctor Who and the Daleks under their Cadet Sweets trading brand, with each pack of ten sticks containing a collectable story picture card.

Although eventually marketed as being an overall "series of 50" on the cards themselves, there were actually two separate stories in the final set that ran one after the other. The first of these, Dr Who and the Return of the Daleks, was outlined in October 1964 and took up the initial 25 cards. Drawn by Richard Jennings (whose artwork graced Panther's The Dalek Book, released in September 1964) this adventure saw the Daleks battling another of Terry Nation's Doctor Who creations, the Voord. It was indicated that a second, unnamed 25-card story was planned, again featuring the Daleks or the Voord, but this time with cowboys.

Ultimately, the idea of using either the Voord and cowboys was dropped from the second story, with the Doctor helping the Daleks on Skaro to shut down one of their own out-of-control machines that is threatening to destroy the planet. This second story ran directly on from the first, covering cards 26 to 50. Although there was some concern that this second adventure featured the two-headed swamp creature, the Horrorkon from The Dalek Book (directly referenced on card #33), the main bone of contention was the use of the golden Emperor Dalek, which had also featured in the annual and which would later become a regular character in the TV Century 21 comic strip, The Daleks.

Records indicate that the sales made between April 1965 and May 1966 totalled 6637 cases. With each case containing 72 packets, it means that around 477,864 separate boxes of sweets cigarettes were sold in that 13-month period, netting BBC Enterprises just over £628 profit.

9 Hertford Street,
LONDON W. 1.

Dear Mr. Tuckwell,

As spoken with your secretary this morning I am enclosing a letter from Paramount Plastic Products Ltd., which I have just acknowledged and I have told them that I am forwarding it to you. In view of our conversation last Thursday, if the firm is any good, it could be just what we're looking for!

I am also enclosing the 44 photographs of the Daleks which you asked for, and the most recent schedule for Dr. Who, which should give you some idea of what to expect in future weeks. Series F seems to hold some promise.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr. Culley,

"Dr. Who"

I am concerned at the attitude of Mr. Glatter of Paramount Laboratories over the preparation of his picture cards for the packets of sweet cigarettes.

He has expressed dis-satisfaction at the co-operation he is receiving from us, and has now requested written confirmation that he may write his own stories to include on the backs of the cards.

As you know, Ann Fitch has spent a considerable amount of time in obtaining photographs, going through the scripts and generally trying to explain to Mr. Glatter the contractual position.

I really feel that we have all spent quite enough time in dealing with Mr. Glatter. If you are agreeable, I suggest you offer to refund any advance he has made, as it is increasingly apparent that with our limited rights in artists, licences, scripts etc., we are not going to be able to meet Mr. Glatter's requirements.

However, if he declines the offer, would you please tell him I would be prepared to submit any story line he cares to let us have, to the scriptwriters for their agreement; and please emphasise too, that there are other interests involved in this type of merchandising beyond those of Paramount laboratories and the DBC.

Yours sincerely,

Joy Williams
Assistant to Head of Business

Dear Mr. Culley,

As spoken, I am returning the proof of "Dr. Who and the Daleks" Sweet Cigarette packet, and I confirm that the only alterations we would like made to it are:

1. The removal of the BBC tv credit
- 2.. The inclusion of "Dr. Who" in the title.

Yours sincerely,

Ann Fitch

Dear Miss Fitch,

Dr. Who & The Daleks - Sweet
Cigarettes

Herewith for your approval the suggested editorial for the first twenty-five picture cards received from Mr. P. Glatter, Paramount (Laboratories) Ltd. I trust these are in order and I look forward to hearing your reply on this matter.

Yours sincerely,

25 CARDS ON
"DR. WHO AND THE RETURN OF THE DALEKS"

NOTES:

- The artist was responsible for the main sections of the Dalek book which is to be published shortly - so details are accurate.
- The concentration is mainly on the Daleks because they have such popular appeal.
- Each card contains a separate incident, but the full story needs 25 cards - in this way there is the desire to collect the next card, without the frustration of a normal serial

(another 25 card story of Dr. Who - Daleks or Voords and Cowboys is planned if required).

1. "Dr. Who" travels to Marinus, planet of the Voords. He is astonished to find Daleks fighting Voords. Daleks find that Voords are planning to travel to earth in search of a mysterious power. They join forces.
2. The Voords have constructed a special spaceship but haven't the knowledge to travel the vast distance in space and time (no difficult unified field theory or Einstein time-slicing - simple statements.) "Dr. Who" is captured and forced to disclose secret of Ultikron travel (Ultra Chronos - beyond time, which is above speed of light).
3. The spaceship sets off - approaching speed of light, "Dr. Who" threatens to pull the vital lever (which would disintegrate the ship). The Daleks are confused, but Voords overpower "Dr. Who".
4. "Dr. Who" is set adrift in space, but Daleks rescue him for their own ends. They keep him secretly in part of the spaceship.
5. "Dr. Who" is startled to learn that the Daleks and Voords are planning to reach our solar system. He escapes and sends signal to earth.
6. "Dr. Who" hides as Voords run into transrace message room. Just in time they leave, as answer flashes back from earth.

7. "Dr. Who" at transpace radio - which planet is spaceship making for?". "Dr. Who" has no idea but tells earth to warn all planets. Then the Daleks imprison him again.
8. Earth Space Station - Scientists at instruments - they have lost track of Dalek spaceship - chief scientist decides there is no chance of Daleks reaching earth. They take only minor precautions.
9. Passing Saturn - Grand Space view seen through windows of spaceship. Daleks plan to destroy the Voords, but "Dr. Who" overhears their plans.
10. "Dr. Who" attracts attention of Chief Voord - The Voord is astonished to discover "Dr. Who" is still in the ship. Voords are told of the Daleks plan and round up the Daleks - but a Dalek hides.
11. Approaching earth, the free Dalek attacks Voord guards - frees other Daleks - great fight between Daleks and Voords.
12. "Dr. Who" climbs into escape capsule as fight continues - the ship's power centre is hit by Dalek ray-gun - ship disintegrates and "Dr. Who" shoots out in capsule.
13. "Dr. Who" (shooting towards earth) tunes in his space scanner and sees Daleks on their hoverbouts (the transolar discs) - but Voords have been destroyed.
14. "Dr. Who" is trying to contact earth with the capsule's radio when a Voord leaps on him - this Voord had already hidden in the capsule - he is the Chief Voord with the knowledge of the Great Power that could be gained from earth (see card one).
15. The Daleks on their hoverbouts see that the capsule is heading for South American Jungle (the exact area must be left vague) - they follow the capsule. Earth space ... orders space fighters to intercept.
16. Space fight - many Daleks destroyed, but capsule lands in jungle - remaining Daleks land nearby - earth fighters have to break off encounter.
17. Voord and "Dr. Who" climb from capsule, "Dr. Who" rescues Voord from elevator - in return the Voord agrees to help "Dr. Who" locate and fight the Daleks.

18. "Dr. Who" and Voord find Daleks and hear their plan - there is a certain type of mushroom, that grows in the area, which was used by Inca Priests in the past. It gives superhuman powers (this is fact). "Dr. Who" realises that if the Daleks take the juice of these fungi into their brain cells (see "Anatomy of the Dalek" in the new Dalek book). Their brain power will be so great, they will outwit any power used against them.
19. Daleks set out on their search for these mushrooms - blasting down jungle as they go. The Chief Voord (with 'Dr. Who') has the secret of the true fungi - "Dr. Who" tells the Voord to contact Daleks and lead them to the deadly mushrooms.
20. The Voord meets the Daleks - explains that he survived and knows the secret of the mushrooms. He leads them to the mountain of the deadly fungi - the Daleks take in the juices.
21. "Dr. Who" has followed and watches aghast as the Daleks shout with excitement - their brain power has been increased! They have become aware, by this power, that an earth fighter fleet is approaching. They plan to ambush it - 'Dr. Who' thinks that Voord has double crossed him.
22. The Daleks lurk behind mountain peaks as fighter fleet approaches - the Voord is kept on the hoverboat of a Dalek - "Dr. Who" can do nothin' to warn the earth fighters.
23. The Daleks swoop down on the unprepared fighters - in the first dive, half the fleet is destroyed. It seems that nothing can stop their onslaught - their new power enables them to anticipate every action of the earth pilots.
24. Close-up of "Dr. Who", delirious. He watches as the Daleks fall from their hoverboats - the deadly mushrooms have destroyed them - the Voord had kept to his bargain but was killed as the hoverboats crashed.
25. "Dr. Who" inside one of the earth craft heading back to England. - Earth had been saved from a Dalek conquest, not by great scientific forces - but by a simple jungle fungus!

Dear Beryl,

Dr. Who and The Daleks
Sweet Cigarettes

Thank you for your letter of the 7th October regarding the above which I have discussed with John Grove and we have decided that we will go ahead with this licence if only to find out for ourselves what the income potential is on this form of merchandising.

Kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

Dear Richard,

PRIM-UNIT (LTD) LTD,

This is to confirm that the Corporation approves the story outline for the sweet cigarette cards. I should just like to point out, though, that neither Cheryl Vertue nor ourselves are very impressed with this idea, and if a further licence is likely to be granted to this firm we would insist on a better standard.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr. Glatter,

Richard Culley has asked me to let you have the Corporation's comments on the proof of the container for your sweet cigarettes.

Apart from one small point we are very pleased with it. The point in question is one that has been brought up several times, and is that the Corporation does not want any reference made to it such as you have on this box, i.e. 'by arrangement with the BBC'. I shall be grateful, therefore, if you would arrange to have this deleted. If, however, it is essential that some reference should be made to the Corporation, then we would agree to the usual copyright notice being used, i.e. © BBC tv 1964.

Yours sincerely,

Ann Fitch

Dear Madam,

Many thanks for returning our sketch of "Dr. Who and the Daleks".

Regarding your note, we should like to explain that it was already pointed out to the printers that the words "by arrangement with the BBC", must be deleted. Mr. Culley was informed of this alteration, but it would have taken too long to have a new sketch made for your approval.

Dear Richard,

Paramount (Labsratories) Ltd - 2nd series

I am sending the above to Mrs. Vertue and have asked her to return it to you with any comments she has to make.

As I told you on the 'phone, we are not too happy about the use of the two headed monster from the Dalek book, or the Dalek Emperor which I believe comes from the TV 21's strip cartoon, but we will accept Mrs. Vertue's views on it.

As I told you this morning, Donald Wilson, the head of the Production Dept art, was so impressed with the artwork that he has asked if it would be possible for him to have a separate sheet when Paramount have finished with it. Could you please find out for me whether this is possible?

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mrs. Virtue,

Paramount (laboratories) Ltd. - 2nd Series

I am sending you the above which is for the 2nd series of Cigarette cards, also a copy of my letter to Richard Culley.

As you will see from this letter, we are not completely happy about the use of the two headed monster or the Dalek Emperor. Apart from the fact that this is departing from the programme, I am a little worried about giving approval to manufacture something that is not based on material originated by the Corporation. One point I should mention is that the artist who drew this also did the drawings for the book. Having made this point we are prepared to fall in with your views on the subject.

Yours sincerely,
